

Welcome to our March Project Update

Keeping you up to date with the Queanbeyan Civic and Cultural Precinct, The QCCP project is changing as each week passes. Whilst members of the public can't see beyond the hoarding, progress inside is increasing each day with the offices and meeting rooms taking shape nicely. Read below for further updates to the QCCP project

What's happening in construction?

Internally of the building its all systems go with glazed partition framing and joinery being installed on the upper levels, this now opens up the floor for the floor finishes and final fit offs to be completed to these areas. The final ground floor podium deck is being poured in the coming days, this is a great milestone for the team as it means the team can push on with the common areas once completed.
